

Leading Healthcare Transformation

DCCS Consulting & Hammes Company Q&A

Why have DCCS Consulting and Hammes Company formed this exclusive partnership?

Hammes Company achieved its long-standing leadership position in healthcare facility development because of its unique integrated service model. Operations transformation and clinical excellence have long been pivotal to that model from the beginning where we led teams in the early launch of “same-handed rooms,” “hospitals without beds,” freestanding ERs and other innovative health delivery concepts.

DCCS Consulting shares with Hammes a long track record of advising and partnering with health systems. DCCS has evolved into a dynamic advisory company driven by exceptional health care operations and clinical expertise delivering performance results in hospitals and other health system settings.

We believe that together Hammes Company and DCCS provide clients with an even more compelling and comprehensive range of advisory services and set the highest standard in the industry for leading healthcare transformation.

What benefits will this strategic partnership between DCCS & Hammes bring to our clients?

This relationship brings clients clinical and operational subject matter expertise during the planning, design, and/or activation phases of a major capital project. Through this partnership, our consultants can solve complex challenges and deliver solutions that only the most experienced operational and clinical performance improvement leaders can provide.

For example, consider a hospital that wants more ORs, but is underutilizing existing OR capacity that could be accessed if physician scheduling or room turnaround could be improved. DCCS would provide senior-level perioperative expertise to evaluate and solve operational issues that could reduce the need for the ORs and improve the viability of a prospective renovation project challenged by capital constraints.

Likewise, DCCS clients will benefit from access to Hammes professionals who can lead strategic market assessments, functional space assessments, or space planning/design in a hospital or health center.

What types of advisory services will DCCS and Hammes provide?
